SUMMARY

This narrative recounts three pivotal life experiences that shaped the author's perspective and choices. The first story centers on the unexpected trajectory of his life, beginning with his adoption and subsequent college dropout. While initially a daunting decision, dropping out allowed him to pursue his curiosity, enrolling in calligraphy classes that unexpectedly proved instrumental years later in the design of the first Macintosh computer. This experience underscores the seemingly unconnected nature of life events, emphasizing that the significance of past choices only becomes apparent in retrospect. The author's decision highlights the importance of trusting one's instincts and embracing unforeseen opportunities, even when the path ahead is unclear. The seemingly insignificant act of pursuing a passion for calligraphy ultimately became a crucial component of technological history, a testament to the power of following one's curiosity. The interconnectedness of seemingly disparate experiences, only revealed with hindsight, forms the core message of this anecdote.

The second story revolves around the author's professional journey, marked by both immense success and profound failure. He recounts the founding of Apple, its meteoric rise, and his subsequent dismissal at the age of thirty. This experience, while initially devastating, liberated him from the burden of past achievements, allowing him to embrace the freedom and creativity of being a beginner again. He emphasizes the importance of finding work one loves and the transformative power of pursuing one's passion, even in the face of adversity. The narrative highlights the cyclical nature of life, with periods of intense success followed by setbacks, emphasizing that setbacks can often be the catalyst for even greater innovation and personal growth. His subsequent ventures, including Pixar, demonstrate his resilience and the enduring power of his creative drive. The experience reveals the importance of perseverance and the unexpected opportunities that arise from overcoming adversity.

The third and final story delves into the author's contemplation of mortality. Inspired by a quote about living each day as if it were one's last, the author adopted a daily practice of self-reflection, constantly evaluating his choices against the backdrop of his own mortality. This reflection emphasizes the importance of prioritizing what truly matters in life, stripping away the superficial concerns of external validation and societal expectations. The author's consistent self-evaluation underscores the importance of aligning actions with personal values and beliefs. He stresses that the awareness of one's mortality fosters a sense of urgency and clarity, allowing individuals to shed inhibitions and embrace their true passions. The overarching message centers on the transformative power of confronting one's mortality, fostering a life lived authentically and passionately. This perspective frees individuals from the constraints of external pressures and empowers them to pursue their heart's desires with unwavering conviction. The imminent nature of death acts as a catalyst for self-discovery and a profound appreciation for the present moment.

Today i want to tell you three stories from my life that's it no big deal just three stories the first story is about connecting the dots i dropped at a week college after the first six months but then stated around us a drop. It started before i was born my biological mother was a young onward graduate student and she decided to put me up for adoption very strongly that i should be adopted by college. For me to be adopted at birth by a lawyer and his wife except one i thought that they decided the last minute that they really want to grow so my parents who are waiting list get a call in the middle of the night asking we got an unexpected baby boy. They said of course my biological mother found out later that my mother had never graduated from college in my father had never graduated from high school she refused to sign the final adoption papers she only related to a few months later. That i would go to college this was the start in my life and 17 years later i did go to college but i know college there was almost expensive standard and all of my working class savings. After 6 months i couldn't see the value of i had no idea what i wanted to do with my life and no idea how college was going to help me figure it out and here i was spinning all the money my parents and save their entire life so i decided the drop out and trust. It was pretty scary at the time but looking back it was one of the best decisions i ever made the minute i dropped out i could stop taking the required classes they didn't interest me and begin dropping in on the ones that look for more interesting. I return top models for the five sense of positive and i would walk the seven miles across town every sunday night to get one could be a week at the harry krishna temple i loved it and to. By following my curiosity and equation that time offer perhaps the best calligraphy instruction in the country throughout the campus every poster every label on every drawer was beautifully hand calligraphist. I decided to take a calligraphy class to learn how to do this i learnt about faces about varying the amount of space between different letter combinations about what makes great it was beautiful historical. And i found it fascinating none of this practical application in my life but 10 years later when we work designing the first macintosh computer it all came back to me and we design in the. If i had never dropped in on at single course in college the mac would have never had multiple type faces or proportionally spaced funds and since windows just copy the mac it's likely that no personal computer would have them if i had never dropped out i would have. Good afternoon calligraphy class and personal computers might not have the wonderful time of course it was impossible to connect the dots looking forward when i was in college but it was very very clear looking backwards 10 years later again you can't connect the dots looking forward you can only connect them looking back. So you have to trust the dots with some help connecting your future you have to trust in something you got destiny life coronavirus whatever because believe in the dark spot connect on the road will give you the confidence to follow your heart even want to leave you after and that will make all the. My second story is about love and loss i was lucky i found what i love to do early in life was and i started apple in my parents raj when i was 20 we were tired. Billion dollar company with over 4000 employees we just released the finest creation the macintosh by your earlier and i just turn 30 and then i got fired how can you get fired from a company you started well as apple group. When we did our board of directors started with him and so at 30 i was out and very public. I really didn't know what to do for a few months i felt that i left the previous generation of entrepreneurs down that i dropped the button it was being passed to me i met with david packet in bob noise and try to apologize for spring i. I still loved what i did the term rejected but i was still in love and so i decided to start over. The heaviness of being successful was replaced by the lightness of being a beginner again later on the most creative periods in my life during the next five years i started a company name next. Company name picture and sound level in amazing women who become my wife the world's first computer animated feature film toy story and is now the most successful animation studio in the world in a remote desktop. I have a wonderful family medicine but i guess the patient needed in sometime life sometimes life. I love what i did you got to find what you love and that is true for work as it is for your lovers your work is going to fill a large part your life and the only way to be truly satisfied is to do what you believe is great work. Any only way to great work is to love what you do if you haven't found it keep looking and don't settle as with all matters of the heart you know when you find it and like any great relationship. My third story is about death when i was 17 like if you live each day as if it was your last someday your most certainly be right it made an impression on me and since then for the. I looked in the mirror every morning and ask myself if the day with the last day of my life would i want to do what i am about to do today and whenever the answer has been no for too many days in a row i know i need to change something remembering that i'll be dead soon is the most important to. Because almost everything all external expectations of pride of fear of embarrassment of failure these things just follow away in the face of death leaving only what is truly importance remembering the you are going to die is the best way i know. Trap of thinking you have something to lose you are already naked there is no reason not to follow your heart no one wants to die even people who want to go to heaven don't want to die to get there and destination we all share. And that is as it should be because death is very likely the single best invention of life it's life changes to make way for the new right now the new is you but someday not too long from now you will gradually. Mp clear the way through your time is limited so don't waste it living someone else's life don't be trapped by dogma which is living with the results of other people's thinking don't let the noise of others opinions ground. And most important have the courage to follow your heart and intuition they somehow already know what you truly want to become everything else is secondary stay hungry stay foolish.
